Abstract of Disclosure

[0085]   A system and method for perceptual processing, organization, categorization, recognition, and manipulation of visual images and visual elements. The system utilizes a dynamic perceptual organization schema to adaptively drive image-processing sub-algorithms. The schema incorporates knowledge about the visual world, human perception and image categories within its structure. A fuzzy logic query control system integrates the knowledge base and image processing drivers.